Gradients

Our brand gradients are made from our accents colors and work to spotlight, frame-up or provide background texture.

Grain provides an element of humanity to our digital experience and should be applied to achieve an ambient, organic feel.

Gradients should be used to express a spark of innovation, the objectivity of truth, and the assurance of collaboration.

As a rule of thumb, decrease the weight of the font as font increases in size.

We use the lighter weights of the typeface to express an air of restraint, refinement, and rationality.

As your font size gets smaller, increase line-height. As your font size gets bigger, decrease the line-height.
